Other comments on the Evaluation

The evaluation will be continuous during the semester.

In order to pass the subject, the student must reach a minimum of 3.5 in each part evaluated. If the subject is not passed for not reaching the minimum in any of the evaluated parts but the total score is higher than 5 (out of 10), the grade included in the grade report will be 4.5 (out of 10).

Throughout the course, the works and projects delivered on time through the Fatic platform will be qualified, as well as the presentations of the projects. Both this work and the final exam can be done virtually if exceptional circumstances make it advisable. The examination may be taken orally or in writing. Any contribution made by students, both in face-to-face and virtual sessions, may be additionally valued.

The parts of the subject passed by the student in the continuous evaluation will be valid in the calls of each academic year.

Students who do not follow the continuous assessment: they must pass the exam (5 out of 10) of the whole subject in the call for official exams. The minimum mark in each of the parts of the examination (theory and practice) to be able to compensate and pass the subject will be 3.5 out of 10. The theoretical part will consist of an examination of objective questions and the practical part in the resolution of cases and practical questions. Through this examination, which will be done virtually if necessary, all the competences in the subject will be evaluated.

The dates and schedules of the final evaluation and exams are specified in the calendar of exams approved by the Centre Board for the present academic course. In case of conflict between test dates will prevail the dates indicated on the website of the FCETOU.

The details and specifications of this educational guide will be published on the virtual platform of the subject in Faitic.

Other comments

This guide aims to anticipate the learning path of the student, and is conceived in a flexible manner. Therefore, it may require adjustments during the course, according to the dynamics of the class or any situations which may arise.

Similarly, it will contribute information and specific guidelines necessary throughout the learning process. The ordinary communication will be done through Faitic

Contingency plan

Description

In the case of teaching in a non-attendance mode, the teaching activity will be carried out by means of the Remote Campus and the use of the Faitic platform, without prejudice to other measures that may be adopted to guarantee the accessibility of the students to the teaching content.

In the case of non-attendance, the work and projects will continue to be delivered, both in the Case Study (laboratory classes corresponding to the GM) and in the Work (classes corresponding to the GP). The evaluation will be carried out with the timely delivery of these works and projects. Also in the case of non-attendance the examination of objective questions will be done virtually, the coordinator will give the necessary guidelines. The examination may be taken orally or in writing.

Tutoring sessions may be conducted by virtual means (e-mail, virtual office, videoconference, etc.) under the modality of prior consultation.

It is recommended to attend the sessions of virtual classes scheduled by the teachers of the subject and consult in tutorials the doubts that arise, for which it is necessary to contact by email with corresponding teacher. It is also highly recommended that students who have connectivity problems communicate this to the subject coordinator.
