| Lecturing | Lectures will be held in French with the whole class, in group A hours. In them, the teacher and the  students will work on the essential concepts related to the different topics of the course and  necessary for the development of the projects. The teacher will also provide literature and other  useful resources for students to find further information. |

| Project based learning | Throughout the course, the teacher will propose three projects to be presented orally on the dates indicated at the beginning of the course. All the projects will be group-based and the instructions for their completion will be detailed on the learning platform. In class, the teacher will guide the students to carry out their projects by means of collaborative group tasks. |

| Problem solving | In B-group sessions, students will complete a series of group tasks in digital collaborative spaces so they can work on different aspects related to the projects in progress. |
| Debate | Discussion will preferably take place during C-group sessions. Students will have to provide answers and ideas about the issues raised in the lectures, although digital meetings with some experts can also be scheduled. If needed, discussion sessions can also be used to reinforce linguistic or digital skills. |

| Project based learning | On the dates agreed in class, students must present in French the outcomes of their group projects which must be submitted to the learning platform. Students must complete three learning projects proposed during the course in order to be assessed in the first call. Each work group will have 10 minutes and will be able to use the technical means that the faculty puts at their disposal. Presentations will be evaluated by the teacher according to a rubric whose criteria and scales will be available on the learning platform. In any case, groups will be created randomly by the teacher. | 25 | B1 B2 B3 B5 B6 B8 B10 | C11 D1  C13 D2  C16 D3  C34 D4  C43 D7  C45 D9  C48 D12  C50 D13  C51 D15  C52 D16  C62 D17  C63 D19  C65 D20  D21 |

Other comments on the Evaluation

Evaluation dates and deadlines are displayed on the learning platform as well as on the faculty's website.

First call evaluation

Continuous assessment

Students must complete and present all the projects proposed by the teacher. The final grade will be calculated by adding up the grades obtained in each compulsory project and each voluntary challenge. Each project will be assessed for a maximum of 2,5 points on the final mark and each voluntary challenge will be assessed for a maximum of 0.25 points.

Final assessment

Students who cannot or do not wish to complete de continuous assessment must ask the teacher to take the final assessment within the first month of class. This evaluation will consist of a written examination on $100 \%$ of the content covered by the classroom projects. The examination will be held on the official date set by the faculty. It will be graded from 0 to 10 and will have different tasks where the students' oral and written comprehension in French will be assessed, as well as their oral and written expression. The examination type and the evaluation tools used by the teacher will be available on the learning platform.

Students with special educational needs (SEN)

Students with special educational needs due to specific learning difficulties may need an adaptation of the evaluation system. This adaptation has to be designed by both the teacher and the students involved with the aim of ensuring that all the necessary means are available for students with SEN to show evidence of their achievement of the course objectives.

Second call evaluation

Students who will not attend any evaluation (continuous or final) at the first call will be evaluated as no-shows. Those who will not pass the course in the first call will be evaluated at the second call. At the second call, the work done at the first call will not be taken into account.

Students who will attend the second call will have to take a written examination on $100 \%$ of the contents covered by the classroom projects. The examination will be held on the official date set by the faculty. It will be graded from 0 to 10 and will have different tasks where the students' oral and written comprehension in French will be assessed, as well as their oral and written expression. The examination type and the evaluation tools used by the teacher will be available on the learning platform.

Working languages

The working languages of the course will be French, Galician, Spanish and exceptionally English. The teacher will communicate with the students at all times, both orally and in writing, preferably in French. Unless the teacher gives other instructions, students may use any of the working languages. However, the commitment to use French will be taken into account positively in the final evaluation. Examination questions will be written in French only. Students from international mobility programmes may receive support in English upon request.

The use of automatic translators in any learning activity of this course, as well as to communicate with the teacher, is not allowed. Its repeated use in a project or in an examination may constitute an invalidation.
