Other comments on the Evaluation

There are two evaluation systems: continuous evaluation and global evaluation. The deadline to change from continuous evaluation to global is from September 11 to October 11.

- Non-face-to-face (non-continuous evaluation system and second call), with a final exam that may include theoretical and/or practical content through questions that may be multiple choice, short, development, or practical cases. The exam will consist of a theoretical part (short questions and/or test) (50%) practical (50%). It will be necessary to pass both parts separately (5 points out of 10). This test is aimed at assessing the understanding of the concepts acquired in the subject, assuming 100% of the grade, and will evaluate, in addition to the concepts of the subject, the clarity in the exposition and the correct grammatical and orthographic use in those parts that require it.

- Classroom (Continuous assessment system): the application of a continuous assessment system means that the final grade will be obtained from the evaluation of three knowledge tests, resolution of short exercises and supervised work.

1.- Knowledge tests: it will consist of the resolution of three knowledge tests, which would contain exercises and answers to short and/or multiple-choice questions. Theoretical part (short questions and/or test type) (50%), practical (50%). It will be necessary to pass both parts separately (5 points out of 10), to pass the knowledge test. To pass the subject it is necessary to have passed the three knowledge tests.

2.- The resolution of short exercises: it is estimated that the total number of short works will be three throughout the entire semester.

3.- Tutored work: it will consist of the elaboration in a group (3/4 students) of a work, destined to the application of the concepts and techniques of the subject in an autonomous way by the students, counting on personalized attention for its follow-up. . The supervised work will be delivered on the deadline announced well in advance.

The final grade will be the sum of the knowledge tests that account for 70% of the grade (to make the sum all of them must be approved), plus the grade obtained in the resolution of short exercises that will mean 5% of the final grade and the sum of the qualification obtained by the tutored work that will mean 25% of the final grade. Minimum mark to pass the subject 5. To make the sum of the three tests (knowledge tests + resolution of short exercises + supervised work) all the knowledge tests must be approved.

All those knowledge tests not passed will be recovered in the official exam call (January).

- The specific characteristics of the final exam, both in the face-to-face evaluation (July call) and in the non-face-to-face evaluation, will be detailed by the professors of the subject (in class and through the MOOVI platform) in advance of it and in the framework of the legal deadlines established by the University of Vigo.

- In all exams it will be mandatory to identify yourself officially (DNI, Passport or official substitute document) and the possession of mobile phones, smartphones, or any other electronic device is prohibited, even when these are turned off or at rest. Failure to comply with these two conditions will invalidate the call to which you are attending.

- The dates and times of the assessment tests for the different calls are those specified in the assessment test schedule approved by the Xunta de Centro for the 2023-2024 academic year. In the case of conflict or disparity between the dates of the exams, those indicated on the FCETOU website will prevail.

Second call (July) (face-to-face): it will be evaluated with a final exam of all the contents of the subject that may include theoretical and/or practical content through questions that may be multiple choice, short, development, or practical cases. The exam will consist of a theoretical part (short questions and/or test) (50%) practical (50%). It will be necessary to pass both parts separately (5 points out of 10). This test is aimed at assessing the understanding of the concepts acquired in the subject, accounting for 70% of the grade, and will evaluate, in addition to the concepts of the subject, the clarity in the exposition and the correct grammatical and orthographic use in those parts that require it. The rest of the note corresponds to the continuous evaluation (5% short exercises and 25% supervised work).

- This teaching guide anticipates the lines of action that must be carried out with the student in the subject and is conceived in a flexible way. Consequently, it may require readjustments throughout the academic year promoted by the dynamics of the class and the real target group or by the relevance of the situations that may have arisen. Likewise, students will be provided with specific information and guidelines that are necessary at all times of the training process.

- Non-face-to-face service mechanism for students (tutorials): in all modalities, face-to-face or non-face-to-face, the tutoring sessions will be carried out by telematic means (email, videoconference) under the modality of prior agreement.
